

Thesis Opportunities

Details of the thesis/topic

Type of thesis: Diploma Thesis

Title of the thesis/topic:

Changes in fecal particle size and pH due to duration of starch rich diets in dairy cattle

Short description of the thesis/topic:

The experimental work will be conducted at the laboratory of the Centre of Animal Nutrition and Welfare in Vienna. Parameters to be evaluated will include fecal pH and particle size distribution of fecal samples.

Requirements:

Basic knowledge in animal nutrition. Preferably a student at the last part cycle of studies from the 7th semester.

Further information:

This thesis will require work in the laboratory of the Centre for Animal Nutrition and Welfare (Vienna) using an automatic sieve shaker. The duration of the experiment will be 2 months from September until November.

Duration of the thesis: 2 Months

Start: August / September 2024

Language of the thesis: English

Contact details:

Name of the organisational unit (Institute/Clinic/Unit):

Centre for Animal Nutrition and Welfare / Clinical Department for Farm Animals and Food System Science

Contact person for the thesis:

Univ.-Prof. Dr.sc.agr. Qendrim Zebeli / Dr. Raul Rivera Chacon.

E-Mail: qendrim.zebeli@vetmeduni.ac.at; raul.rivera-chacon@vetmeduni.ac.at

Telephone: +43 6767624560

Feedback from students requested by: 18.09.2024

Please send the completed form to: communication@vetmeduni.ac.at.

Thesis opportunities will be announced on our website www.vetmeduni.ac.at. (on <http://www.vetmeduni.ac.at/en/teaching/study-phases/graduation/theses>; direct link from home page and also to <http://www.vetmeduni.ac.at/en/research/youngscientists>).